To Whom It May Concern,

I have known Bruce Libman of the National Network of Accountants and the Preferred Provider Network for almost ten years and I would recommend him without reservation for speaking engagements, marketing program development and business development programs. Bruce is a dynamic and innovative speaker, trainer and networking guru.

Over the past few years, I have seen the impact Bruce has had on his client's businesses. His innovative approach geared toward clients for life is extremely helpful to professional firms. He has assisted in facilitating relationships for me and has aided many financial planners, accountants and other professionals expand their businesses and develop new profit centers.

Bruce works very hard for his clients and those who are members of the groups he manages. He is always one to give support and lend his expertise, never asking for anything in return. When he makes a commitment to someone or sets a goal, he works tirelessly to achieve the desired outcome.
